

2521 Channing Way | Berkeley, CA
Monday, December 5, 2016

Each year, IRLE hosts Visiting Scholars and Visiting Student Researchers who come to the Berkeley campus to work on independent research projects that contribute to the study of labor and employment issues. This workshop is an opportunity for visitors to present research at various stages of development and gain feedback from their peers and the IRLE research community.

GUESTS ARE WELCOME TO ATTEND THROUGHOUT THE DAY.
PLEASE RSVP TO IRLE@BERKELEY.EDU.

www.irle.berkeley.edu/events/

Agenda

9:30am - 10am | COFFEE & INTRODUCTION

10am - 10:30am | DAPHNE SKANDALIS

The Discouraged-Worker Effect: How do jobseekers respond to information about local labor market tightness?

10:30am - 11am | RAMIN IZADI

Impact of school closures on student achievement

11am - 11:15am | COFFEE

11:15am - 11:45am | FABIAN MUSHOVEL

Austerity and inequality: First-order distributive effects of the economic adjustment programmes in the Eurozone

11:45am - 12:15pm | YUKIKO ASAI

Who Benefits from Flexible Labor Demand? New Evidence from a Matched Worker-Firm Panel

12:15pm - 1pm | LUNCH

1pm - 1:30pm | JONAS CEDERLOF

Unemployment Duration and the Impact of Extended Benefits: A Regression Discontinuity Approach

1:30pm - 2pm | LISA SIMON

How much do grades really matter? Experimental evidence from German HR decisions

2pm - 2:15pm | COFFEE

2:15pm - 2:45pm | MATHIAS VON BUXHOEVEDEN

Unemployment insurance and youth labor market entry

2:45pm - 3:15pm | CLAIRE MONTIALOUX

How to predict the effects of higher minimum wages

3:15pm - 3:45pm | ROMAN BOBILEV

Campaign contributions and firm performance: the Latvian Way

3:45pm - 4pm | CLOSING REMARKS